

ALISHA NORRIS JONES

CULTURE MEDIA REACHED OUT TO SOME OF OUR FAVORITE PEOPLE IN THE CHEESE WORLD TO LAUNCH A CHEESE & MUSIC PAIRING PLAYLIST. EACH PERSON CREATED A UNIQUE SET OF PAIRINGS THAT REFLECTS THEIR PERSONAL AND PROFESSIONAL STYLE. WE HOPE YOU ENJOY THESE PLAYLISTS AND GIVE THEM A SPIN THE NEXT TIME YOU ARE HAVING A PARTY, HAPPY HOUR, OR A SOLO NIGHT WITH YOUR FAVORITE CHEESE BOARD.

When putting together cheese playlists, I go for more of a general vibe (what environment do I want to create while enjoying a board with my friends?) than specific pairings with songs. Fondue screams 60's and 70's lounge aka a good reason to throw a costumed cocktail party.

I like using Melissa Clark's recipe as a starting point, but feel free to use whatever recipe you'd like. Your cheese selections are the most important part of the process. Personally, I prefer equal parts Raclette (Springbrook's Reading Raclette is my favorite) and Gruyère (Le Gruyère's 6 months is preferred)- though some folks like to add Emmentaler to the mix. Wonton crisps, Cheez-Its and french fries make great additions to traditional fondue accoutrements. I've had some friends pair kimchi and fondue with great success.

You can't go wrong with white wine + fondue (Gruner Veltliner and Riesling Spatlese are both lovely), or fondue + Kirsch for that matter. While not super 70s, I'd never pass up the chance to enjoy melty cheese + Calvados either (Christian Drouin's VSOP).
